1. Incorrect type of «dash» symbol

A sentence with a complicated construction should use a long dash symbol — other symbols are not suited for this task.

Incorrect usage of medium dash: A numbers range – which is typically written as p.15–180 in books — should have a delimiter called MEDIUM DASH. Incorrect usage of short dash: You can also use mathematical expressions instead of simple number ranges - maybe that'll look a lot more intuitive to people who're supposed to read your assignment.

Incorrect usage of long dash: A small dash is used rarely (there're only 20—30 of them in each book while suggested amount is quite a lot more than 30 — 50) and is a symbol that people put between very-complicated words that have 2 parts that comprise them.

2. Incorrect litlink
